Masterworks: A Journey through Himalayan Art Presented by the Rubin Museum of Art

[Image: Pages from a Mongolian Liberation through Hearing in the Intermediate State (Bardo Thodrol) Manuscript; Mongolia; 19th century; textile over wood; pigments and ink on paper; Rubin Museum of Art; C2004.37.3 (HAR 65385)]

"Masterworks: A Journey through Himalayan Art" explores major strands in the development of art from the Himalayan region covering a period of more than one thousand years, with objects drawn primarily from the Rubin Museum's collection.

Masterworks is organized geographically and chronologically, showcasing the diverse regional traditions of Tibet in relation to the neighboring areas of Eastern India, Kashmir, Nepal, Bhutan, China, and Mongolia. Juxtaposing the art of Himalayan regions over time sheds light on the geographic, historical, religious, and artistic interrelationships among these cultures.

Portraits & Pastorals Presented by the Frederic Remington Art Museum

[Image: Frederic Remington, Sketch of a coastline with buildings. Pencil and watercolor on sketchbook sheet. Gift of the Remington Estate. Frederic Remington Art Museum]

The selection of works featured in the Addie P. Newell Gallery features portraits and landscapes by Frederic Remington, in a wide variety of mediums and styles. On display are paintings in watercolor and oil, ink washes, pencil and pen and ink drawings, and a number of sketches. With gestural watercolors, intimate portraits, plein air sketches, and vivid impressionist brushwork, the exhibit highlights lesser-known facets of Remington's work. Curated by Rich Fedorchak.
